

NEW HOME PLOTS PUT ON MARKET

Anthony Firm Plans to Sell Small Acreage to El Paso People.

Anthony, N. M., May 21.—The first large acreage of bench land to be put on the market in small tracts for suburban homes is Fruitland Acres, one half mile south of here facing the concrete road. It is cut in five and ten acre tracts with a broad frontage and a 40 foot driveway through the center and is most admirably suited for country homes. The ground is owned by Christian & Hishberger.

HAY DAMAGED BY RAIN, BEETS AND BEANS BENEFITED

Vinton, Tex., May 21.—A great amount of hay is down in the district on the west side, the growth of hay being farther advanced than the rest of the valley. It is feared this rainfall and very cold weather will damage the crop considerably, though the moisture is a great benefit to the sugar beets and bean crops, which are coming on fine.

Twelve auto parties were out from El Paso Sunday and enjoyed fishing at Vinton lake.

Dr. J. B. Brady was out from town and spent a few days at his ranch here.

'WAR'S WOMEN' AT THE UNIQUE

Strange, Fierce, Remarkable Story of a Girl's Terrible Sacrifice.

Perhaps one of the most remarkable stories in point of strength of theme, that has ever been pictured on a stage that is truly wonderful, headed by Frank Keenan and Edna Markley. In the mythical land of Balkania, in and near the village of Tournai, the strange, terrible, yet remarkable story is told. Mr. Keenan is the fierce, fearless demagogue who rules a land of wild mountains, horsemen, and makes barbarous attacks upon the villages of the country for supplies and to make barbarous attacks upon the girls and women. Around one such attack the story revolves, and a drama remarkable for its tense, terrible action and striking conclusion is the result. Massive sets are employed during the enactment of the scenes, among them the raising of the village, the exterior and courtyard of the abbey, and the interior where the big scenes are made. Edna Markley challenges Mr. Keenan for first honors in this remarkable drama.—Adv.

END BENNETT IN 'HAPPINESS'

Charming Star in Story of Rich Girl Who Finds the World Poor in Affection.

"Happiness," which will be shown at the Gevaion three days, beginning today, is well-designed to give what its title implies. In the first place, it is a genuine composition for the screen by a man who understands the art. C. Gardner Sullivan, direction in the capable hands of Reginald Barker, and interpretation of the leading role falls to a young lady, who is naturally qualified by a charming personality. Miss End Bennett. Mr. Sullivan has written a high comedy of bright originality, fairly sparkling with unforced subtleties and not jarring the audience with weary melodrama. He tells the story of the rich girl who finds the world poor in affection until she meets an unaffected and resourceful young fellow, working his way through college as a "washerwoman," taking in laundry through the instrumentality of a sweet little doll of a girl who finds the romantic adventures of the poor young student. There are several amusing characterizations in the development of this story scheme, just as there should be in any live comedy, and they are entrusted to versatile artists. It is a cast without a flaw, and the comedy is admirably handled. Miss Bennett contributes her full share with refinement and good taste, and, what is still better, she does not make the role colorless. Her psychology, especially in the closeups, is very effective. She lightens and beautifies "Happiness" and is purely headed for higher honors. The play is bound to win wherever shown, because of its nice balance, clean motive and beautiful artistic harmony.—Adv.

ALHAMBRA—PAULINE FREDERICK

The story of the picture, "My Better Self," is by Maxweld Turnbull and is theatrical and theatrically effective. The story reaches its climax in a court, with the hero in danger of being declared guilty when he is innocent and the heroine rushing to the scene in a smart motor car. One of the picture's tries is in league with the plot, for it blows out during the trial to court and delays the heroine just long enough to make her entrance at the very last moment. Pauline Frederick has given an exceptionally fine interpretation of this difficult role and is most ably supported by a splendid cast including Thomas Delaune, who has been seen with Miss Frederick in most of her recent productions. This picture will be at the Alhambra today and tomorrow. Prices are 10c, 15c and 25c.—Adv.

TEAL KEEPING UP HIS GAIT

After 18 Weeks, His Offerings Are Still as Good As When He Came.

It is remarkable how Raymond Teal and his company of mirth-makers manage to be so entertaining for such a long time, but it proves the general rule that if you do a thing right, it is worth while. From the opening bill 18 weeks ago, Teal has given the people spiritual entertainment, and all of his offerings, with the exception of two or three, have been of a high class. None of them have ever descended to vulgarity and the shows have all been kept clean. Teal, himself an excellent actor and producer, has surrounded himself with first class people, which, added to the fact that he gives them good bills to work in and dresses them in the latest styles, accounts for his success. A few dollars in expense, if they will add to the attractiveness of his show, apparently do not enter into consideration with Teal. Where the average manager would be content to produce his musical offerings with the scenery the theater affords, Teal keeps two scenic artists busy constantly. Each new production has a new setting, and all are artistic, some even elaborate. Likewise, the Teal Dorklings seldom appear in the same costumes, for a wardrobe woman is busy all the time making new ones and they are not cheap—silk and satin for Teal always.

In the whole, Teal has the best musical stock company El Paso has ever seen, he gives the best productions any stock company has ever offered, and the answer is that Teal is getting the money—and he deserves it.

The latest offering of the Teal company is on a par with many shows that have appeared here at three times the price. It goes with a snap from the beginning, is timely, and the cast is in capable hands, as usual. As a matter of fact, everybody seemed to be a little bit better than usual in this offering, even to Fritz Fields, and we have seen Fritz in so many good parts that he could not but be the average once in a while and be excused, but he keeps his average well up towards the thousand mark in every show.

One of the surprises of the present show was Miss Corinne Carlock. She has appeared in various character roles in the past until the audience had come to think of her as an ugly old woman. In the new bill, while appearing as the middle aged wife who loses her husband well under the rule of her thumb, the usual ugly lines were missing and she affected only only with a star. The result was that the audience saw a good looking woman and liked her better than usual.

Miss Fanny DeLacour, the ingenue, was as clever and as pretty as usual and Miss Hazel Lake made Fields look like a clown for laughs. In her role of the actress with a line of slang as long as a juror's excuses. Her "Cabaret" song number, with the chorus girls singing from the sides down with the audience and all the other principals doing bits on the stage, was a big hit and called for five encores.

Frank Jaquet, a new member of the company, while having no part in the cast, made his first appearance in a song number and a specialty in which he gave various imitations and closed with a whirling number, made a hit and got four encores. He promises to become a great favorite as the other members of the company already are.

Roy Kinslow, as a pampered only son of a dotting mother, acted and danced the part to perfection, even to drinking his milk as if he liked them. Homer Long and Orville Harris, while having small parts, noted them for fun, and both drew the usual applause in their song numbers. Miss DeLacour and Mr. Long sang a dainty duet that made a big hit.

Miss Walsh has a song number that was most enjoyable and Roy Kinslow's song with "moving picture" accompaniment, was no popular hit. The audience didn't want to let him quit. The "moving picture" was a girl behind a window, certainly reflected in silhouette before the audience.

Much of the success of this bill, as in all the Teal bills, is due to the splendid work of the chorus so carefully trained by little Miss Minnie Vandervoort, who put more pep into a performance than a real Mexican chef can get into a bowl of real chili. G. A. M.

Provost's Chauffeur

Lands In Jail; Car Is Damaged In 'Joy Ride'

"Just going for a joy ride," said Walter Geisler, provost patrol wagon driver, Sunday night when he was taken to the office at the police station about 8 o'clock. About 7:30 o'clock, Capt. Charles Mehl, Eby, provost marshal, received word that the military patrol car was wrecked in the 2300 block on Mississippi avenue. The captain went to the place and found the car turned over on its side, with the right front wheel off. The driver, in a dazed condition, was taken to the station. The car was taken to the army shops for repairs Monday morning.

Joyous Soldier Takes

Shot At Police Station

It was 2 o'clock Sunday morning, and all the police department was resting peacefully when suddenly a shot rang out. A drunken soldier had taken a shot at the police station, while driving by in an automobile, night officers said. Detective W. C. Wolterton started after the disturbance in a police car, but was unable to catch up with the joy-riders who disappeared at Kansas and Overland streets. The bullet lodged in the wall of the station.

This Cop Must Be Irish;

Report Is Full Of 'Balls'

The Triumphal March of Bevo

A NEW CREATION OF SCIENCE AND NATURE

WHEN we announced Bevo recently, our hopes were high. We knew that we had the most unusual soft drink that had ever been offered: A beverage combining the nutritive extracts of wholesome cereals, the zest of Saazer Hops, a flavor all its own, and absolute purity. We knew this because, true to our own ideals, we had experimented for years before we were satisfied to say, "We offer you Bevo—it is a different soft drink—it is good and it is good for you."

High as were our hopes for its reception, we have realized them far and beyond our expectations.

Bevo today is an established popular success. Everywhere the same question is asked:—"Have you tried Bevo?"

Now, one final word. We promise you that, in accord with the known principles of Anheuser-Busch and all its products, Bevo not only will forever maintain its present high standard of quality, but as time goes on our great endeavor shall be to make this soft drink even more perfect in every detail of its goodness.

You will find Bevo at inns, restaurants, groceries, department and drug stores, picnic grounds, baseball parks, soda fountains, dining cars and other places where refreshing beverages are sold.

Guard against substitutes. Have the bottle opened in front of you, first seeing that the seal is unbroken and that the crown top bears the Fox.
